

Health Care Ethics Course at School of Nursing

The School of Nursing is offering a course on ethical concepts and issues relevant to the practice of nursing and other health professions on October 30, November 6, November 13, November 20, and November 27.

Details

This course introduces ethical concepts and issues relevant to the practice of nursing and other health professions.

Areas of emphasis include the nature of clinical autonomy, investigating caring and compassion, the quality of life, and the foundations of codes of professional ethics.

The course is based on the use of case studies and class exercises. Assessment is made by work-based application of the ideas and approaches developed in class.

For more information please contact Ghassan Afram at 5970 or Dr. Keith Cash at 5977.

Coordinator

Dr. Keith Cash, RN, PhD School of Nursing, AUB

For further information contact ga27@aub.edu.lb -